You.

He has it upon his conscience that he must regulate and conduct all the Departments of the General Government, or they will perish, and he be held accountable. Alas, to what a con-dition have we descended! Our Government dependant for its existence upon one whose highest appreciation of its interests is, that unless the places, and especially the emoluments of office, shall fall to him and his friends, all wrong, all is corrupt, all is unsafe!

It is very singular to me that he should take pains to preserve the purity of the Whig escut-cheon, while he is himself, from day to day, doing his utmost to tarnish it by blackening fame of its proudest and most honored members. In regard to the Gardiner claim, he gropes for facts in the dark-arrives at conclusions in the dark-strikes in the dark, stabs in the dark—and makes himself in general ridiculous. It is well known to some, and soon will be to many and to all, that he will have to tak back his accusations, and unsay nearly all his assertions.

Respecting the retention in office or the elevation of Democrats, if Commentator would be candid, he could complain but little as a Whig. If this whole Administration has not done a full share of the work of "rewarding its friends and punishing its enemies," I would like to know what administration ever did!

He has singled out examples in a very unlucky way; for if he has the truth and candor I think he must possess in common with all fair men, he will in a moment confess that the chief clerk of the Treasury Department and Mr. King are two of the most faithful, competent and satisfactory officers employed in the services of the Government. He will not, and no one will, make any objection to these gentlemen, officially or personally. Whatever may be their political opinions, I know that they retain their places, and have even been advanced with the assent and good-will of very many as good Whigs as ever Commentator was; and the sin of keeping such men in is one which a great many Democratic Secretaries and other appoint-ing officers have often committed.

Commentator is engaged in a small business and will not profit by it. He only hopes to operate on Whigs; and, in the very act of attempting this, is forfeiting the good opinion of that party. But the strangest thing about him is, that, while nobody is Whig enough for him, he is doing his worst against Whiggery. My advice to him would be to postpone all further criticism until he places himself in a position to produce an effect—until he can honestly claim to produce an effect—until he can honestly claim to be a Democrat, and then let him carry on an open, undisguised war.
But the Administration is getting along pretty prosperously; and it is thought by some who know how matters stand, that Mr. King will remain in statu quo, Mr. Harington grow in popularity and strength, and Mr. Corwin not go the penitentiary!

The present is a pure Administration, and its history will reflect honor upon the country for centuries after even Commentator himself shall Respecting his friend, Major McRea, I have only to say that if his statement is true, the President has been deceived. I have known Major McRea in a sunnier clime, and in more prosperous days; and if there is a man who deserves well, especially of Mr. Fillmore, he is that man. His case, I am sure, needs only to be understood to be righted, and Mr. Fillmore is just the man to do it. But Commentator will do no good by advocating Major McR.'s cause. He will damage it, and all other causes he may espouse in the spirit he exhibits. PATRIA, NON PARS.

WASHINGTON, August 22, 1851. To the Editors of the American Telegraph.

GENTLEMEN: I have heard it stated, on good authority, that Mr. Secretary Corwin, some time since, said to a Whig applicant for office, or for promotion in office, who handed to the Secretary a letter of recommendation from Henry Clay, "Why do you bring a letter from Mr. Clay? He can never be President! Why not get some rising constable, in your own vicinage, to recommend you?"

It is currently rumored, that, since the foregoing incident occurred, Mr. Secretary Corwin has declared to a friend that the Whig party is broken up, and is no where; that Judge Douglas will be the next President of the United States, and that he will give him his support!

If these things are true, do they in the conflict with the line of conduct now pursued by Mr. Secretary Corwin toward the party which enabled him to attain his present high WASHINGTON, August 23.

A SCRIPTURAL MANUAL.—By Chas. Simmons.

A SCRIPTURAL MANUAL.—By Unas. Simmons.

THE DESIGN of this book is, to furnish proof texts, alphabetically and systematically arranged, on all the important topics introduced in the Old and New Testaments. Great care has evidently been taken in selecting and classifying these texts. They fill a 12mo. volume of over 500 pages, arranged under no less than 750 distinct topics, with an average of perhaps half a dozen texts to a topic. The book is furnished with a full index, which evently increases its usefulness, and is in every research.

topics, with an average or pernaps and a dozen texts to a topic. The book is furnished with a full index, which greatly increaces its usefulness, and is in every respect not only a very valuable kind of work, but undoubtedly the best of its class extant.

Were it generally possessed, carefully studied, and faithfully used, the result would be the introduction of a new era in biblical knowledge. It is commended to all elergymen, to students, to families, and especially to Sabbathschool teachers. The good paper, fair type, and mechanical execution of the work, are worthy of its contents. The account stereotyped edition of this book, being its twenty-fifth edition (issued in 1850), is a great improvement on former editions, in the number and arrangement of topics. The fact that 41,000 copies of it have been published within a few years, to meet the gradually increasing demand for it, is a gratifying proof of the estimation in which it is held.

THE LONDON QUARTERLY REVIEW,
THE EDINBURGH REVIEW,
THE EDINBURGH REVIEW,
THE WISTMINSTER REVIEW, and BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE.

In these periodicals are contained the views, moderately though clearly and firmly expressed, of the three greatest parties in England—Tory, Whig, and Radical; "Blackwood" and the "London Quarterly" are Tory, the "Edinburgh Review" Whig, and the "Westminster Review" being the "Helper liberal. The "North British Review" owes its establishment to the last greatecclesiastical movement in Scotland, and is not ultra in its views on any one of the grand departments of human knowledge. It was originally edited by Dr. Chalmers, and now, since his death, is conducted by his son-in-law, Dr. Hanna, associated with Sir David Brewster. Its literary character is of the very highest order. The "Westminster," though reprinted under that title only, is published in England under the title of the "Foreign Quarterly and Westminster," it being in fact a union of the two Reviews formerly published and reprinted under separate titles. It has, therefore, the advantage, by this combination, of uniting in one work the best features of both, as heretofore issued.

The above Periodicals are reprinted in New York, immediately on their arrival by the British steamers, in a beau-of both, as heretofore issued.

BRITISH QUARTERLY REVIEWS.

O WING to the late revolutions and counter-revolutions among the maxions of Europe, which have followed each other in such quick succession, and of which "the end is not yet," the leading periodicals of Great Britain have become invested with a degree of interest nitherto unknown. They occupy a middle ground between the hasty, disjointed, and necessarily imperfect records of the newspapers, and the elaborate and ponderous treatles to be furnished by the historian at a future day. Wheever result these periodicals obtains a correct and connected account of all the important political events of the Old World, as they occur, and learns the various conclusions drawn from them by the leading spirits of the age. The American publishers therefore deem it proper to call renewed attention to the works they publish, and the very low prices at which they are offered to subscribers. Mr. Robert Sours—Dear Sir: I have looked over the entire series of your valuable publications with much interest and profit; and am quite surprised at the amount of literary labor you have performed, and the research it must have cost you to obtain so many fine illustrations, while you have an active superintendence of an extensive business. I am also gratified at the decidedly moral and religious influence which your books will exert, and cannot but hope that they will do much to counteract the effects of that light and immoral literature which deluges the land, and, like the frogs of Egypt, comes up even to the kneading troughs of our kitchens. May you live long to follow your plans.
